ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION

This is an interesting adaptation of elements of the Italianate and Second Empire styles to a very modest house. The asymmetrical massing and corner tower are in the style of the Italian villa, while the tower's Mansard roof is Second Empire, and the steep gable roof of the main block suggests the Gothic Revival style. Basically, it is a twostorey house with a rear wing and a tower projecting from one corner of the facade. It is set on a low foundation. The walls are stuccoed, but probably were originally covered with some kind of wooden siding. The central block is two storeys tall, three bays wide, and single pile. It has a high-pitched gable roof covered with standing-seam metal with boxed cornice and intricate scroll brackets at the peaks of the gables. Gable-roofed wall dormers, with the same brackets in the gables, are located just south of center on the front and rear elevations. A small one-storey veranda covers the center bay of the facade. It has a steep bellcast truncated hip roof covered with standing-seam metal with boxed cornice, a plain frieze, and turned posts. The balustrade has been lost. The four-paneled entrance door in the center bay has a two-light rectangular transom. Windows in the main block and rear wing are double-sash with plain surrounds, slightly shorter at the second level. They are 6-over-2 light on the facade, 6-over-9 light on the south end, and 6-over-6 light on the north end and in the rear wing. There is a pair of full-sized double-sash 4-over-4 light windows in the dormer on the facade; the rear dormer is narrower and contains only one window. There is a central chimney corbelled out over the roof and smaller chimneys in the wing and at the rear of the tower. All three are covered with stucco or concrete. The rear wing is one bay wide and located somewhat north of center. It is shorter than the central block, but it has lower ceilings so that the cornice is above the second storey windows. A one-storey back porch along the south side of the wind has been enclosed and stuccoed. The tower projects from the northeast front corner of the central block. It is a full two storeys tall, with its cornice about the height of the ridge of the main roof. Its Mansard roof is covered with metal plates. Windows are narrow paired 1-over-1 light at both levels of the tower.

HISTORICAL DESCRIPTION

Benjamin E. Tonsler was Principal of Jefferson School, the first black public school in Charlottesville, from its opening in 1895 until his death in 1917. Tonsler Park at Cherry Avenue and Fifth Street, SW was named in his honor. Tonsier purchased this lot in 1876 (ACDB 73-293) and, according to tax records, built this house in 1879. His daught ter, Mabel T. Sampson, bought the house from the other heirs in 1940 (City DB 107-382). Mrs. Sampson still owns the house and lived there until a few years ago.

SIGNIFICANCE

This house is an interesting vernacular combination of elements of the Italianate and Second Empire styles. It was the home of Benjamin Tonsler, a prominant local black educator.
